

ABSTRACT

Door assembly for a microwave oven including a door panel at one side of the door, having a push bar and a latch both projected from one side toward a body, and a latch board including levers each fitted rotatable at contact with the latch or the push bar, and switches each operable at contact with the lever, thereby providing a simple and convenient assembly structure.